

Sex Deviates At State, CIA Arouses Nation

FOIAb3b

CPYRGHT

The revelation of the existence of a "top secret" agreement between the State Department and the CIA regarding the use of Foreign Service "sexual deviates and drug addicts" as double agents for the CIA has startled the Executive department, especially the so-called "intelligence community", as well as Capitol Hill. The EXCHANGE was reliably informed on September 14.

Following the report appearing in its September issue, it was learned that several journalists, periodicals and press services were actively engaged in developing "leads" contained in the September 6 disclosures for use in further press reports.

On Capitol Hill, The EXCHANGE was reliably informed, the accuracy of the contents of the article are readily conceded "off the record" by knowledgeable members of the staffs of the Senate and House subcommittees dealing with appropriations for the CIA. Senators and Congressmen who did not previously have access to this information, however, have privately expressed "shock". One Congressman, asking not to be named, stated that, "if true, this will require urgent changes in the Foreign Service Act of 1946" which authorizes the "selection out" of Foreign Service Officers without any appeal procedure provided at all. This Congressman observed that "it is entirely possible that selected out Foreign Service Officer Stephen Koczak was a victim of a conspiracy which may include not only the State Department officials he has already identified but also certain as yet unidentified CIA officials."

Readers of The EXCHANGE will recall that Mr. Koczak's difficulties in the Foreign Service began after he observed his superior, FSO-3 Thomas A. Donovan, now on duty at the State Department's Bureau of Intelligence and Research, making "unauthorized telephone calls to Polish nationals from Communist East Berlin." Mr.

Koczak understood that these telephone calls were placed in East Berlin primarily to avoid their being "monitored" by American military authorities in West Berlin. After Mr. Koczak reported these facts to FSO-1 Howard Trivers, now Consul General in Zurich, and to Career Minister E. Allan Lightner Jr., now Deputy Commandant at the National War College, Mr. Koczak claims he suffered a series of manipulations and violations of his efficiency records, including the destruction of original pages of his report, the forging of substitute pages and their backdating and insertion into his efficiency report as if they were the original pages. Also, he claims, a statement was added that he had read the entire efficiency report when he had not.

Readers of The EXCHANGE will recall previous reports from a reliable source that Mr. Donovan was transferred from Warsaw at Ambassador Beam's request after Embassy Marine Guards, "involved sexually with Polish female intelligence agents", had made confessions about Mr. Donovan. He was "unexpectedly assigned" to Berlin, the source revealed, on instructions from Ambassador Loy Henderson, then the Deputy Under Secretary for Administration, following requests for Mr. Donovan's services in Berlin by Messrs. Lightner and Trivers.

Earlier this newspaper had reported that Mr. Donovan's apartment in Warsaw had been "bugged" by Polish and Soviet intelligence agencies and that subsequently, without Mr. Donovan's prior knowledge, the CIA had monitored and recorded the transmissions through these Polish and Soviet bugging devices of conversations taking place in Mr. Donovan's apartment. The tapes of these "bugged conversations" are now in the files of the CIA. The EXCHANGE has been informed by unimpeachable sources.

The most important details of the "top-secret" State-CIA agreement, revealed by a "retiring senior Foreign Service Officer," were carried in the September 6 issue of The EXCHANGE as follows:

According to the same senior retiring FSO, the "top secret" agreement allows the sexual deviate to acquire "immunity" and continue his Foreign Service Career to the top, even though he is supplying information to foreign powers, provided he acts as a "double agent" for CIA.

The same source also revealed that there were two other "corollary" agreements between CIA and State. One governed an arrangement to fabricate or to modify certain personnel documents, especially by removing original documents. The other concerned the "programming-in" of CIA recruits or officers into the State Department, Foreign Service, AID, and USIA. The "programming-in" was currently being done, the source stated, through the Office of Management Planning, located in Suite 800 at 18th and G Streets, NW. Known popularly as the "Barrett Program", after its director Richard Barrett, the "programming-in" is carried out under a variety of "management directives" by "former CIA officers" now being carried on the State Department payroll as "domestic" Foreign Service Reserve Officers, Class 2. According to the source, the most prominent of these are John J. Adams; Bruce H. Allen; and Curtis Lee Fritz.